

Take the Ice Age Trail Bike Challenge

The Ice Age Trail is a 1,200-mile series of trails in Wisconsin that follows the extent of the Laurentide Ice Sheet which once covered most of the state. Today, the trail covers some of the most beautiful and unique landscapes in the state, carved into the earth by the advance and retreat of the ice sheet. Over 11 days, bike over these and other landscapes before racing to the finish line at the state Capitol. For more information about the Ice Age Trail, visit www.iceagetrail.org.

Wisconsin land cover and water data provided by Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources (DNR). Physical geography labels represent named ecological landscapes and are also provided by WI DNR.

Projection Information:
NAD 1983 HARN Wisconsin (Meters)